JIM AND SUE AKOVENKO #010102

Following their university education, Jim and Sue spent five years in the U.S. Air Force. Jim flew jet aircraft and helicopters in Vietnam, Thailand and the U.S. While in Thailand, Jim learned about mission aviation by reading the book "Jungle Pilot."

After leaving the air force, the Akovenkos moved to Birmingham, AL. While attending mission conferences at Briarwood Presbyterian Church, they sensed a call to serve full time in mission aviation. In 1977 Jim and Sue joined Mission to the World and served in cooperation with Wycliffe Bible Translators. They served for over 12 years in Southeast Asia where Jim was a pilot and administrator, and Sue had various roles in the ministry.

Jim and Sue live in North Carolina where Jim is president of JAARS, Inc., the support/technical division of Wycliffe Bible Translators and SIL International. Sue is office manager for the Aviation Training Department. Although their ministry in Asia reached into many language groups in Asia, they are now reaching around the world as they help train and encourage missionaries working in over 70 countries.

Jim and Sue have two married sons.
