BRENDA CARTER #011110 CHURCH PLANTING

Growing up in Florida, Brenda had many opportunities in her churches to hear missionaries share the need for the gospel to be taken around the world. As a result, she wanted to be a missionary from an early age. After graduating from Auburn University, Brenda received her masters while teaching biology at an inner-city high school in Houston, TX. In 1986 Brenda started her missionary career in Taiwan with MTW, teaching the first two years at Christ's College, near Taipei. In 1989 she began helping with a church plant two hours south of Taipei in a small Hakka town, San Yi. Brenda has been living and working there ever since, involved with many aspects of local and inter-church growth and renewal ministries among the Hakkas.

Out of Taiwan's overall population of 23 million, only two percent consider themselves

Christian. Among the four million Hakkas in the country, this percentage is a dismal 0.3%. Over the years, the Hakkas have been considered a "resistant" people group, but when the facts are known, they are more accurately described as a "neglected" people group. Brenda hopes you will join her in her ministry among the Hakkas, giving the Hakka Chinese an opportunity to hear the gospel.
